Wednesday Morning, August 23, 1871.

In purchasing the Colonelcy of the 9th regiment, Jim Fisk mistook his vocation. He thought he could train the militia, because he could the Erie train. He ought to be on a rail rode.—Raftsman's Journal.

Tax-payers should not forget that it was the Republicans that relieved real estate of this State from taxation for State purposes. Notwithstanding this reduction of State taxes, Republican administrations have gone on steadily reducing the State debt.

By wise Republican rule, and the strict observance of economy in all the branches of the National Government U. S. Grant has reduced the national debt, from March 4, 1869, to March 1, 1871, $204,754,013! What is Grant doing? What are the Democracy doing in cities like New York, where they have the control?

The State Journal objects to Gen. McCandless because when he was Colonel of a regiment he "joined in a crusade against the regularly appointed chaplain of his regiment because he was a Presbyterian, and would have waged the same opposition had he belonged to any other denomination, for the reason that he wanted a Catholic."

There is no longer any doubt that "the nigger in the wood-pile" of the temperance political movement, is a coffee-pot which can be used for the double purpose of coloring naturalization papers and cozening unsophisticated temperance men, who are Republicans, to vote against their party for the success of Democratic candidates.

The elections that have taken place this summer have been unexpectedly favorable to the Republicans. The majority of 10,000 in North Carolina for that party has greatly disappointed the Democratic leaders, who have been calculating on a unanimous South in their favor. The "new departure" has blasted the prospects of the Democracy, if it had any.

North Carolina.—In this State the Democracy sought to perpetuate their power by overthrowing the existing State Constitution. The victory they achieved last year stimulated them with this hope. They have completely failed. The majority against the constitution is 12,000 or 15,000. This is a glorious Republican victory in the old north State—a Republican gain of 18,000 or 19,000 since last year.

Gen. Pleasonton has been removed from the office of Revenue Commissioner, by the President. The cause was, that he refused to obey his superiors, the very last offence a trained military man should be guilty of. Mr. John W. Douglass, of Pennsylvania, a gentleman with the highest qualifications for the office, and who should have received the appointment when Gen. Pleasonton was selected, is his successor.

Republican success in the South is the more gratifying, because it is won in the face of the bitterest opposition ever waged against a good cause. Our increased vote in Kentucky, a State which acted meaner in rebellion than any of her other revolted sisters, proves that we are winning our way by the force of enlightened argument and fact, while North Carolinia shows that when Republican principle is properly presented, we will always have success.

Montana.—The Election in Montana has resulted in a Republican victory. The Republican candidate for delegate to Congress being elected by a smart majority. This is a Republican gain. The special dispatch to the Tribune says:

"We have routed the left wing of Price's (rebel) army," many of whom after the war emigrated to Montana, thus accounting for the Democratic majority in the past.

All these late elections are decided indications of the permanent ascendency of the Republican party; and the final overthrow of the Democratic, shuffling deception—a result which common sense must always expect. The enemies of the country in the hour of her trial, have never heretofore survived to rule and control its destinies.—Greensburg Herald.

MEEK CODTRADICTED—HIS DEMAGOGUEISM EXPOSED—TAX-PAYERS LOOK TO YOUR INTERESTS.

In the last Watchman we find suspended under the caption of "Radical Extravagance," the guerrilla yell of Peter G. Meek, to cover up the culpable financiering of our County Commissioner's to which we have frequently and reluctantly called the attention of the tax-payers of the county. Mr. Meek in his preliminary language says, "Facts and figures will prove him (Brown) a liar."

In our strictures on the management of the County funds, by the "faithful custodians of the interests of the people" as taken from the Auditor's Report, showing the Receipts and expenditures of Centre county, from the second day of January, 1870, to the second day of January, 1871, as published in the Watchman of the 24th of February, 1871, which proves Meek a shameless knave, who impudently considers the tax-payers fools, who do not know that they are oppressed and swindled by the speculating political collectors, who hold their appointment from the County Commissioners; but will take Meek's wreckless assertion that the Commissioners are vigilant guardians of the people's taxes; that our county is out of debt and that there is a surplus in the Treasury. Yet the tax of six mills on the dollar goes on, and is collected by the Commissioner's selected and chosen political tax collectors. These collectors are defaulters, if the Auditors Report of John Rishel, J. M. Bush and H. D. Yeaghar, all good Democrats, be true. These taxes, in the hands of Democratic defaulting collectors, have not been paid into the Treasury for several years, and to accomodate these defaulting tax collectors and favorites of the County Commissioners in speculating with the county funds, the Commissioners are paying 12 per cent, for borrowed money to meet the ordinary expenses of the county. For the proof of this assertion we appeal to the present Treasurer S. S. Wolf, and dare and defy a contradiction.

We find in the expenditure column as passed and allowed by the same Auditors as a credit, the sum of $1,542,64 interest paid on notes and bonds by the Commissioners—which at 6 per cent. would be the interest on $26,100 which the Commissioners have borrowed and which still remain due by the county.

These are "facts and figures" taken from the Auditors Report as we find it in Meek's Watchman of the 24th of February, 1871, where we also find in the Auditors Report, that there is in the hands of defaulting collectors the

Large sum of	$44,329 74
With a credit since settlement of	4,954 36
Leaving unpaid	$39,375 38

Thirty nine thousand three hundred and seventy-five dollars and thirty-eight cents in the hands of the defaulting collectors running from 1864 to 1870, which should have been collected and paid into the Treasury and the county debt paid off, instead of paying 12 per cent. interest to cover over and screen the crime of these speculating and defaulting collectors. Here, again, we appeal to the Hon. S. S. Wolf, present Democratic Treasurer of Centre county, for the truth of what we assert. Show up your books, gentlemen, and prove our assertions false if you dare. S. S. Wolf is called to the witness stand because Peter G. Meek had the hardihood to call us a liar.

We now ask Meek and the Commissioners of Centre county, how they pay the liabilities of the county? Hear them:

Total amount of assessments	$44,329 74
Total amount of liabilities	39,206 05
Balance in favor of county	$ 5,123 69

Now you see it, now you don't, says the slight of hand performer and so says Peter G. Meek, Commissioners and Auditors who Meek asserts, "prove that the County Commissioners have been faithful custodians of the interests of the people, and skillful managers of the financial affairs of the county."

If it be skillful management to borrow $26,100,00, give the notes and bonds of the county, with interest and pay 12 per cent. for money to defray the ordinary expenses of the county, and at the same time, permit the collectors to speculate with the taxes collected from 1864 to 1870, if this we say be skillful management, then the County Commissioners are, indeed, "faithful custodians of the interests of the people." Here again we appeal to S. S. Wolf for the truth of our assertion. We dare and defy contradiction. Will Meek in his own classic language call us a liar again?

We find by the same Auditors statement that the collectors of 1867, 1868, 1869 and 1870, paid $23,602,16 and exonerations made at the same time amounting to $1,720,96, which sum is allowed by the commissioners, to the collectors. And we cannot guess the amount of exonerations which is to be allowed to the defaulting collectors, who have the $39,206,65 in their pockets. We say we cannot surmise the amount for these collectors are the favorites of the commissioners; but it will be considerable, and much of it may be lost entirely. This added to the per centage allowed to the defaulting collectors for collecting (retaining) the taxes will reduce the funds to pay the county debt considerable.

But why? Or what reason can be given by the commissioners for not compelling the defaulting Democratic collectors to pay over the taxes, in their hands, to the Treasurer, and let the county debt be paid and the county taxes lowered, or reduced? Why oppress the people? The people have paid their taxes to these defaulting collectors, now these same people ask why shall we continue to pay six mills on the dollar county tax?

They have Attorneys as we see by the Auditors report and the fees paid them. Then why not collect the peoples money held by these defaulting collectors from 1864 to 1871? Does this neglect, prove the county commissioners "skillful managers of the financial affairs of the county?

Let the tax-payers look at the Auditors report as published in the "Watchman" of the 24th of February 1871 under the head of "Liabilities" and they will find it thus stated:

Amount of exonerations and per centage on uncollected taxes	$ 5,825,70
County Bonds	10,000 00
Per Notes	6,100,00
County orders outstanding	2,780,35
Bill- and notes unpaid	2,000,00
Am't paid A. C. Geary late treasurer	2,500,00
County indebtedness	$39,206,65

Here the Commissioners charge the county with $5,825,70 on uncollected taxes and in favor of the defaulting collectors, who have the money in their pockets, instead of having paid it over to the County Treasurer, S. S. Wolf, Esq. And we further assert that the county commissioners do not charge these defaulting collectors with interest to meet the interest paid by the county on their indebtedness. These defaulting collectors pay but six per cent interest to the county, while the commissioners to let them slip, are paying 12 per cent for money borrowed from Maj. Wm. F. Reynolds & Co., and others. For the proof of this assertion we again appeal to S. S. Wolf, present Democratic Treasurer of Centre county. We dare and defy contradiction.

Tax-payers of Centre county, is this method of collecting taxes fair? Is it honest? But how do the Commissioners and Auditors intend to pay the $39,206,65 due by the county to her creditors? Hear them.

"Total amount of assets $44,329,75" the very amount they state is in the hands of the straw defaulting collectors for years. Is this not financiering for the county with a vengence? And this is the way, by which they claim a balance in favor of the county of $5,123,69

If this statement was true, then why levy a tax of six mills on the dollar, to pay the ordinary expenses of the county? But the fact is by their own showing, the county is indebted $39,206,65 and this is the reason why the six mills is required off the tax-payers. It is this attempted blindfold game, which pleases Peter Meek and causes him to dub the county commissioners the "faithful custodians of the interests of the people and skillful managers of the financial affairs of the county."

Let the tax-payers of the county be no longer hood-winked by such financiering; but on the Second Tuesday of October next, elect a Commissioner and Auditor, who will expose the favoritism and mismanagement of our county finances.

But Meek, to cover up the derelictions of the Commissioners puts his hounds upon a herring, instead of a fox trail, asserts that the Republicans got control of the county commissioners office and by thieving and mismanagement left the county $230,000 in debt. This out does Tom Pepper. No man who has any respect for himself would make such an assertion. Who would do it but a forger?

All we have to say on this head is in the language of Meek, "facts and figures will prove him a liar."

Tax-payers of Centre, will you submit to wrong forever? Will you permit the John of the "Watchman" and the Court House Ring to dictate to you forever? We dare and defy Peter G. Meek to contradict this statement, or to prove that the finances of the county are not in a woeful condition. Why is the county tax levied at six mills on the dollar? Who is a liar?

IMPORTANT LETTERS.

SOMEBODY GUILTY—JEHU IN TROUBLE—WILL HE EXPLAIN?

Bellefonte Aug. 15, 1871.

Capt. Isaac Lytle.—In a recent canvass for nomination as the candidate of the Democratic party for Assembly, rumors arose and were loudly avowed, that you as the Sec'y of the Republican County Committee had written a letter to one James Chambers, urging him to use his influence to arouse the lukewarm democrats in favor of one of the prominent candidates for said nomination, and alleging that the prominent Republicans of our party were ready to use their influence to elect him should he be nominated.

Will you please explain as to the truth or falsity of the said rumors—as to the letter said to have been shown in Penn and other townships?

Please answer promptly.

Respectfully Yours,
Jas. H. Rankin,
Chairman County Com.

Bellefonte Aug. 16, 1871.

Jas. H. Rankin, Esq., Secretary Republican County Com.

Sir:—In reply to the inquiries contained in your letter of the 15th, would say that I did not write a letter to Jas Chambers, Esq., under my official signature as Secretary of the Republican County Committee, nor without it; urging him to use his influence with lukewarm Democrats, in favor of one of the prominent Democratic candidates for Assembly, alleging that if nominated the prominent Republicans of our party would exert their influence to have him elected.

As to the letter said to have been shown in Penn and other townships written by me as Secretary of Republican County Committee, must in truth say that I know nothing at all about it, and if such letter was shown, was written without my knowledge or consent.

Respectfully Yours,
Isaac Lytle
Sec'y Rep. County Com.

Capt. Lytle by the above letter settles the question of the Lytle-Chambers letter, said to have been exhibited by Mr. Meek, in Penn and Miles townships. If Mr. Lytle did not write the letter who did? If the Captain did not sign his name to it who did? Will Mr. Meek explain? Was Lytle's name forged?

"Gen. Wm. McCandless is a man of the people. He can to day take down a locomotive, and can refit and equip it, and when thus refitted he can seize its lever, and with it safely can draw a train of cars over the heaviest grade."—Exchange.

This is wonderful. We imagine, of course, that the General can do all this irrespective of the size of the engine, the elevation of the grade, or the weight of the train. It is amazing what some gentlemen can do, when their friends have the statement of their capacities. The General will, however, have a chance to test his powers. He is the engineer, at present, of the Democratic party. That rickety old locomotive was taken apart when he was nominated last Spring, reconstructed, cleaned up, and the General put aboard to run the machine. If he don't find out before October that he has a heavier load, a steeper grade, and a poorer engine than he ever ran during his days of railroading, we will confess that we are mistaken in the matter.—Carlisle Herald.

The strength of the Temperance organization of Pennsylvania is not to be measured by the diminutive proportions of the Harrisburg Convention which placed Messrs. Spangler and Wheeler in nomination, any more than the wisdom of the leaders of that organization is to be judged by the follies of that Convention. The latter was held against the protest of the regular organization, and against the judgment of ninety-nine hundredths of the Temperance men of the State, who regard the movement as a mere tender to the Democratic machine, and have no confidence in the sincerity of the ex-office holders of the Republican party who manipulated its deliberations. In their judgment its tendency is but to weaken the cause it professes to uphold, and it will be treated accordingly.

For the Republican.

Messrs. R. B. Barger & Co.—Gentlemen:—In looking over the political field in search of some one to compete with Col. W. W. Brown for the nomination for Assembly, we have hit upon the name of A. R. Barlow, Esq. We need not tell you who Mr. Barlow is, as he is well and favorably known to all the citizens of the county. He served this county twice in the Legislature and made an active pure and faithful member. His many friends ask him to serve the party and the county once more. We do not feel like taking no for an answer.

Respectfully, &c.,
Many Neighbors.

TAX COLLECTOR—THE DEMOCRATS RESPONSIBLE.

The collector of State and county taxes for this Borough for the year of 1871, is around asking the people for their taxes, for this year, and says that the Commissioners must have a thousand dollars to meet the expenses of the August court. It is undeniably true, that they must have money for that purpose, but we would ask them if there is not a large amount outstanding in the hands of former collectors of this Borough which has not yet been paid into the treasury of the county? It is certainly right for every tax payer to pay his taxes, but is it right and just to permit so large an amount of money as the last statement of the county Auditors shows, to remain in the hands of defaulting collectors? Are the Commissioners doing their duty as faithful public servants, who are the custodians and managers of the finances of the county to allow this? Had the County Commissioners done their duty and urged the paying of these taxes of past years, there would not be the necessity for money they now say there is, but on the other hand, there would be sufficient in the hands of the Treasurer to meet and defray the expenses of the August court. Who is to blame for not compelling the former collectors to settle up and pay over the amounts due on their duplicates? If the people have not paid their taxes, it is the duty of the county commissioners, to urge the collectors to collect them at once, and if the taxes are paid, then, it is the duty of the commissioners to adopt legal means to collect them from the defaulting tax collectors. There is something wrong some place—some body is to blame—and the tax-payers should know who is at fault in this matter. Will the Commissioners explain? Will they tell the tax-payers why it is, they are borrowing money at 12 per cent per-annum, when Meek in his "Watchman declares that the county is out of debt? Will Meek and the Commissioners explain the county account as published in the Democratic "Watchman of February 24th, 1871? To show that we do not misrepresent or lie, we copy the following list of defaulting collectors from the "Watchman" of 24th day of February, 1871. Examine the list, and you will gnd that the name of D. F Fortney, Chairman of the Democratic County Committee appears on the list, and while this money is due and unpaid, the county commissioners are borrowing money from Wm. F. Reynolds & Co., at 12 per cent per annum. Read the list

Total voting population of the city, 184,607.

Col. W. W. Brown:

Dear Sir:—I see my name announced in your paper as a candidate for County Treasurer. The Democratic party has placed in nomination a soldier for the office of Treasurer; let the Republican party nominate a candidate for the same office, from among the same worthies, so that the strength of the parties may be fairly tested. Certainly we have as many Captains Col's, Majors and many more privates—noble soldiers, as the Democrats have, who surely claim our gratitude at this early day of the countries salvation.

You will, therefore, please withdraw my name from the list of candidates, as my whole mind is upon the Spring Creek route for the Snow Shoe Railroad extention. The Narrow Gauge is favorable to this route, and this route is favorable to the Narrow Gauge. But, hold on I am getting things a little mixed, and will therefore, close by saying that I purpose writing an article at no distant day on the merits of this route and upon the demerits of the mountain route; providing some abler pen does not anticipate or forestall me.

Very respectfully, &c.,
Robert Kendall.

Bellefonte, Pa., Aug. 19th, 1871.

To C. Strickland, Geo. A. Fairlamb and others.

Gentlemen:—Your letter soliciting me to become a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, at the approaching October election, has been received. In reply, I would say, as it has always been my highest ambition to merit the respect and good will of my fellow citizens, I feel much gratified in the confidence and trust you repose in me. I am not a politician in the common acceptation of that term—seeking the office instead of the office seeking the man—yet I do not feel at liberty to decline your kind and voluntary request. You, therefore, have permission to use my name as requested, and should your good wishes be realized at the coming election, I can only promise to execute the duties of the trust with honesty, fidelity and impartiality.

Respectfully yours, &c.,
Geo. A. Bayard.

Senator Scott's Ku-klux Committee in South Carolina, has succeeded in gathering a score of testimony, which, when made public, will appall the people by the horrible details of beastly oppression it will set forth as having been practiced on the freedmen and defenceless whites by marauding ex-rebels. The country is scarcely prepared, even after all it has learned of rebel treatment of our prisoners during the war to learn the facts of the barbarity practiced since; but it is time the knowledge is published that we know what to do to punish the guilty.

For the Republican.

R. B. Barger & Co.:—Gentlemen.—Please announce the name of Col. Jas. P. Coburn, of Haines twp., as a candidate for Assembly. We are not sure he will permit his name to go before the convention. Indeed we have heard him say that he would not, but we hope he will re-consider and consent to be our standard-bearer in the coming campaign. He is known to all our people as an energetic and good man, and will make a big run. Yours, &c.,

Many Citizens.

The Columbia Spy says: "General M'Candless, Democratic candidate for Auditor General, while on a visit to Norristown a few days since, gave orders to the Democracy there to destroy all their old banners, transparencies, mottoes and devices heretofore used, and new ones be procured. It is said that an offer was made to the "Wide Awake" club for the use of theirs, but was refused.

The Cincinnati Enquirer aptly illustrates the waiting and anxious condition of the Democracy by relating this little story:

A boy was observed intently watching for a "woodchuck" to come out of his hole. "Do you suppose you can catch him?" asked a passer-by. "Catch him?" contemptuously answered the boy. "I've got to catch him, stranger, we are out of meat."

ASSEMBLY!

Col. Brown.—You will confer a great favor upon the Republicans of Harris twp., by announcing the name of Col Robert McFarlane as a candidate for the Legislature. We Know this announcement to be contrary to his wishes, but nevertheless, we wish you to make it and we will take the responsibility.

GONE WITH A HANDSOMER MAN.

JOHN.

I've worked in the field all day, a plowing the "stony streak;"
I've scolded my team till I'm hoarse; I've tramped till my legs are weak;
I've choked a dozen swears (so's not to tell Jane fibs)
When the plow-pint struck a stone and the handles punched my ribs.

I've put my team in the barn, and rubbed their sweaty coats;
I've fed 'em a heap of hay and half a bushel of oats;
And to see the way they eat makes me like eatin' feel,
And Jane won't say to-night that I don't make out a meal.

Well said! the door is locked! but here she left the key.
Under the step, in a place known only to her and me;
I wonder who's dyin' or dead, that she's hustled off pell mell;
But here on the table's a note, and probably this will tell.

Good God! my wife is gone! my wife is gone astray;
The letter it says, "Good-by, for I'm a going away!
I've lived with you six months, John, and so far I've been true;
But I'm going away to-day with a handsomer man than you."

A han'somer man than me! Why, that ain't much to say;
There's han'somer men than me go past here every day.
There's han'somer men than me—I ain't of the handsome kind:
But a lovin'er man than I was I guess she'll never find.

Curse her! curse her! I say, and give my curses virg!
May the words of love I've spoke be changed to scorpion stings!
Oh, she filled my heart with joy, she emptied my heart of doubt,
And now, with a scratch of a pen, she let's my hearts blood out!

Curse her! curse her! say I; she'll some time rue this day;
She'll some time learn that hate is a game that two can play:
And long before she dies she'll grieve she ever was born;
And I'll plow her grave with hate, and seed it down to scorn!

As sure as the world goes on, there'll come a time when she
Will read the devlish heart of that han'somer man than me;
And there'll be a time when he will find, as others do,
That she who is false to one can be the same with two.

And when her face grows pale, and when her eyes grow dim,
And when he is tired of her and she is tired of him,
She'll do what she ought to have done, and coolly count the cost;
And then she'll see things clear, and know what she has lost.

And thoughts that are now asleep will wake up in her mind,
And she will mourn and cry for what she has left behind;
And maybe she'll sometimes long for me—for me—but no!
I've blotted her out of my heart, and I will not have it so.

And yetin her girlish heart there was somethin' or other she had
That fastened a man to her, and wasn't entirely bad;
And she loved me a little I think, although it didn't last;
But I musn't think of these things—I've buried 'em in the past.

I'll take my hard words back, nor make a bad matter worse;
She'll have trouble enough; she shall not have my curse;
But I'll live a life so square—and I well know that I can—
That she always will sorry be that she went with that han'somer man.

Ah, here is her kitchen dress! it makes my poor eyes blur:
It seems, when I look at that, as if 'twas holdin' her.
And here are her week-day shoes, and there is her week-day hat,
And yonder's her weddin' gown: I wonder she didn't take that,

'Twas only this morning she came and called me her "dearest dear."
And said I was makin' for her a regular paradise here;
O God, if you want a man to sense the pains of hell,
Before you pitch him in just keep him in heaven a spell!

Good by! I wish that Death had severed us two apart,
You've lost a worshipper here—you've crushed a lovin' heart.
I'll worship no woman again; but I guess I'll learn to pray,
And kneel as you used to kneel before you run away.

And if I thought I could bring my words on heaven to bear,
And if I thonght I had some little influence there,
I would pray that I might be, if it only could be so,
As happy and as gay as I was half an hour ago.

JANE (entering).

Why, John, what a litter here! you've thrown things all around!
Come what's the matter now? and what 've you lost or found?
And here's my father here, awaiting for supper, too;
I've been riding with him—he's that "handsomer man than you."

Ha! ha! Pa, take a seat, while I put the kettle on,
And get things ready for tea, and kiss my dear old John;
Why, John, you look so strange! Come, what has crossed your track?
I was only a joking you know; I'm willing to take it back.

JOHN (aside).

Well, now, if that ain't a joke, with rather a bitter cream!
It seems as if I'd woke from a mighty ticklish dream;
And I think she "smells a rat," for she smiles at me so queer;
I hope she don't; good Lord! I hope that they didn't hear!

'Twas one of her practical drives—she thought I'd understand!
But I'll never break sod again till I get the lay of the land.
But one thing's settled with me—to appreciate heaven well,
'Tis good fer a man to have some fifteen minutes of hell.

Rebel Flags.

THE FLAG MUSEUM AT WASHINGTON.

A Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial writes as follows of the rebel flags in the flag museum of the War Department:

The door leading to the back room, in which the rebel flags are stored, is shaded by two flags fastened at the top and parted below, and secured in the manner of window curtains. The first impression in this room is one of meanness and uncleanness—like entering a tenement house. The first room looked gay and brilliant in comparison. There were in one case the bright colors which distinguish silk from a poor article of bunting, and in the other the dull, heavy, dingy colors that betray poverty and want. No partiality had been shown in the arrangement of the rooms. The best flags had been put forward in either case, but the rebels were compelled to use such materials as they could obtain, and the varieties of materials and styles of construction are sufficient to astonish and amaze the visitor.

THE FIRST FLAG.

Prominent in this room is the first flag adopted by the rebels. There are two specimens, and they are festooned about the door. They are of course silk material, badly faded and somewhat injured by wear and tear. They are about twelve feet long by four wide. There are three stripes, red white and red, with a blue union and thirteen white stars. They are inscribed, according to regulations, on one side: "We collect our own revenue," and on the other, "We choose our own institutions."

This flag did not last long. The authorities became dissatisfied with it, and Confederate flag No. 2 was adopted. It was composed of white field, red union, with an X of blue, on which appeared thirteen stars.

This was also short-lived. It was discovered that the flag could not be readily distinguished at a distance, the white field being almost impossible to distinguish from the atmosphere at a short distance. So flag No. 3 was adopted, which differed from No. 2 only in having a stripe of red across the end of the field. Besides these, which were used as regimental or brigade flags, there were garrison flags, and others intended for special purposes.

FORT FISHER FLAG.

The garrison flag was very large, its length being not much more than its width. I take the Fort Fisher as a model. It has no union. The flag is of red bunting, bound with white, with a blue cross reaching to the four corners. This cross is also bound with white, and is studded with thirteen white stars.

THE PALMETTO FLAG.

In a prominent place among the rebel flags is the one which was raised first at Charleston, South Carolina, early in 1861. It was the first secession flag raised by the rebels, and it was used generally in the fortifications about Charleston and Fort Sumpter and Moultrie. The record shows that this was the first flag raised in the Confederacy, and is the sickest looking flag I ever beheld. The material is white bunting. Sewed in the centre of the flag is what is intended to be a representation of a palmetto tree. It looks more like a spider than a tree. It looks like some of the insects that I saw in San Domingo. It has six or eight branches (I call them legs) and no leaves, and it has what passes for a trunk, but I call it a bill or a tail. This tree must have been very green in its infancy. It has surrounding it eleven red stars and a red moon, rising. The moon never got very far up.

THE NUMBER OF REBEL FLAGS.

The number of flags captured by the Union army from rebel troops during the war cannot be accurately ascertained, because many of the captors stuffed the flags in their knapsacks, and took them home to adorn their bed-rooms. Many others were taken to the various State capitols, and are there displayed as evidences of valor by the troops of that State. The number which the register in the Museum contains is 542, or more than double the number captured by the rebels. There are many interesting facts connected with the rebel flags that I have not the space for. I must, therefore, close with an enumeration of the flags captured from the rebels, in battle, by the loyal troops of the various States, which is given below:

Alabama	7	Mississippi	3
Arkansas	1	Missouri	4
Connecticut	9	New Jersey	8
Delaware	3	New Hampshire
Florida	1	New York	105
Georgia	3	North Carolina	5
Illinois	13	Ohio	34
Indiana	19	Pennsylvania	46
Iowa	13	South Carolina	1
Kentucky	11	Texas	5
Louisiana	2	Tennessee	5
Maine	8	Vermont	4
Maryland	3	Virginia	24
Massachusetts	10	West Virginia	17
Minnesota	5	Wisconsin	4
Michigan	12
Total			386

This account also fails to tally with the figures before given, but the explanation is more easy. In some of the States aboved named there were many rebel regiments, and the discrepancy may be thus explained.

THE BLACK FLAG.

During the war I heard much of the black flag; it was alleged that the rebels had hoisted it on several occasions, and the North was stirred into a fury about it. Religious newspapers, and all the high toned morality people made a great ado about it; calling the rebels fends, and begged God to smite them for raising the black flag.

The black flag means, I believe, that no prisoners are to be taken by the bearers of it—that no quarter is to be shown; that all prisoners and wounded are to be killed; all handsome girls of the enemy are to be temporarily married; houses to be burned, crops gathered, towns pillaged, &c. I don't know how many other awful consequences are supposed to follow the raising of the black flag. At any rate, at a certain period of the war, the religious press and the high moral press and statesmen flew into a state of mind, because, as was alleged, the rebels had raised the black flag. I asked Mr. Brand if he had any of the black flags which the enemy raised. He said he had the celebrated black flag, the one that raised all the bad blood of the North, and he took me to the corner of the room. Here sure enough, was a black flag. It was composed of black cambric or "shiny" muslin, about four feet long by three wide. It was spread out and tacked to the wall. This, then, was that awful flag which had been raised by the rebels.

A more infamous humbug was never invented. There have been wise beards set upon this flag; there have been opinions solicited from high authority regarding it; it has been looked at outside and inside to determine its character, and to gather facts in regard to its use. Sherman solved the problem at last. The flag, as I have said, is of black cambric. The first sun or the first rain would wash it out and make it gray. It has a white star in the centre, on which is painted "Winchester." This flag, which gave the North such a fever, was nothing more nor less than a signal flag! Black was chosen as the color to be seen at the greatest distance, and a white star against a black ground would be very conspicuous. The rebel signal corps was very serviceable to them at Winchester, and hence the inscription. The record, in this case, states the flag was captured within the rebel lines, near South Mountain, Maryland, August 1, 1864, by a detective. Mr Detective tried hard to obtain distinction, but in this case he merely captured a signal flag.

A DEATH-BED DIVORCE.

[From the Henry County (Ind.,) Republican.]

Eli Davis, of Lewisville, died on Wednesday, July 19, 1871. He had been for two years laboring under the effect of paralysis. For one year he had been unable to walk except by the aid of others, and for more than six months had been to all appearance devoid of reason or any knowledge of persons or things. On July 18, about 6 o'clock p. m., and fifteen hours before his final exit, and when he was to all intents and purposes, except the mere fact of breathing, as dead as poor old Marley, he was divorced by Judge West's court from his second wife.

The suit for divorce was brought by his guardian at the instance of two sons by a former wife—Harvey Davis, boot and shoe dealer, of Indianapolis, and Clayton Davis, of the same place. The deceased knew nothing more of the existence of the suit than the man in the moon. The real cause of it was the fact that the deceased was the owner of property worth not less than $100,000, in which this second wife, if undivorced, would have been entitled to a one-third interest, during life. She is a young, healthy woman, with apparently thirty or forty years of life before her.

It is but fair to presume that, at 10 per cent., interest, her third would be worth $50,000 or $60,000 and over in twenty years. And from what we can learn, her chance to live twice that long is as good as the chances of the average womankind for ten years. But by some hocus-pocus she was persuaded or prevented from appearing against the complainant, and to accept a compromise of $8,000 alimony. This compromise was indorsed, and the divorce granted by Judge Wm. B. West, when the complainant, who never knew that he complained at all, was dying. Comment is unnecessary. The names of other actors in this matter we withhold for the present.

ONLY AN IDEA.—Bulwer says poverty is only an idea in nine cases out of ten. Some men with ten thousand dollars a year suffer more for want of means than others with five hundred dollars. The reason is, the richer man has artificial wants. His income is ten thousand dollars a year, and he suffers enough for being dunned for unpaid debts to kill a sensitive man. A man who earns a dollar a day and does not go in debt is the happier of the two. Very few people who have never been rich will believe this; but it is true. There are thousands and thousands with princely incomes who never know a minute's peace.—There is really more happiness among the workingmen in the world than among those who are called rich.

CHARACTER.—It is not always in the most distinguished exploits that men's virtues or vices may be discerned; but frequently an action of small note, a short saying, or a jest, distinguishes a person' real character more than fields of carnage, or the greatest battles.

Worrying The Bridegroom.

A friend of ours, who once lived in Iowa, used to tell a story of a wedding that he witnessed, where the ceremony was performed, three times in one night on the same couple. He was wandering through northern Iowa and southern Minnesota, on a search for timber lands, and was accompanied by a backwoods adventurer named Preston. Near the line, between Iowa and Minnesota, they stopped a few weeks at the house of a settler named Jenkins. The latter had a buxom daughter, and was well off for a back-woodsman, and the situation appeared decidedly favorable to Preston. So he courted the daughter, and was polite to the parents; the result was that a wedding was arranged, and all the neighbors for miles around were invited.

Jenkins was a liberal provider, and weddings were not common in his family. He laid in half a barrel of whiskey, and his wife and daughter cooked enough for a small army, so that nobody should go away hungry. There was a preacher in the neighborhood, who had arrived there recently, and he was invited to unite the pair. He tied the knot, and was rewarded by Preston, who made a mess of the affair by dropping a couple of silver dollars into the punch-bowl, while trying to hand them to the parson. The bride's arm was called into requisition to lift out the cash, which she did with all the skill of a native of Long Island fishing for "Blue Points" with a pair of oyster-tongs.

For the invited guests, the serious business of the evening began with the supper that followed the wedding ceremony. Preston took his full share of punch and straight whiskey before retiring to the bridal chamber, which was reached by a ladder through the floor of the garret. Mrs. Preston had been taken there by the bridesmaids a half an hour earlier, and when the couple had disappeared there was a fresh assault upon the whiskey.

It leaked out in the course of the evening that the parson was not an ordained preacher, and only one of those ministerial fledglings who have been "licensed to exhort." When old Jenkins heard the rumor, he went for the exhorter, and extracted from him the horrible fact that he was not really authorized to unite couples in holy matrimony, but he had officiated on this occasion because he thought it was all right, and nobody would know the difference. Jenkins flew around like a boy with a bumble bee in his coat-sleeve; he kicked the unhappy exhorter out of doors, and went up the ladder like a monkey climbing up a window-blind.

"Here you, git up, git up," he shouted; "you ain't married at all. Git up this minute. Git up and come down, quick."

The voice of Preston was heard to drawl out that he wouldn't get up, and that if his respected father-in-law didn't clear out and mind his business he would get his nose busted.

Jenkins explained the situation, and the couple arose. In a few minutes they came down the ladder looking very sheepish, and the bride blushing like a red wagon. There was a justice of peace in the party, and he performed the ceremony, which, unfortunately for Preston, took his only remaining silver dollar. There were more drinks, and then the couple again ascended the ladder, to their bridal apartments. Preston muttered, as he ascended the ladder, that if he ever found that parson he would hurt his face so that his friends could not identify him without a magnifying glass.

Of course the party down stairs, who were making a night of it, talked over the peculiarities of the wedding, and their talk developed the fact that the justice of the peace lived in Iowa, while the house of Jenkins was in Minnesota. Jenkins was informed of the situation, and away he went once more for the ladder. He was louder in his tones than before, and his first words met a prompt answer from Preston.

"Now, look here, old man," said Preston, as he bounded out of bed, "there has been foolin' enough around this yere ladder to-night, and if you don't git, I'll bust your head."

He picked up a cow-hide boot as he spoke, and advanced menacingly. A shrill voice from the bed urged him not to hurt "pa."

"Don't shoot—don't," said Jenkins, as he returned down the ladder, till his head was level with the garret floor. There he paused and explained the state of affairs to the enraged bridegroom, who stood over him with the boot uplifted and ready for a blow.

Preston accepted the explanation, and the result was, that the couple arose and dressed, and descended the ladder. Then, with Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins, who were sober enough to stand, they walked a mile down the road to the Iowa line, and entered the Badger State. There the justice again united them.

"And this time," said he, as he concluded the ceremony, "you are married sartin sure."

Returning home once more, they found the party so overcome with the fun of the affair, and the liquors, that there was no "foolin' around the ladder" during the remainder of that night.

IF you want to be "up with the times," it won't do to be a-stern man.

DEMOCRATIC DEVOTION TO FREE TRADE.

THE EDITOR OF THE CENTRAL DEMOCRATIC ORGAN THE CORRESPONDENT OF THE BRITISH FREE TRADE LEAGUE.

WORKINGMEN OF PENNA. READ!

The Democratic member of Congress from Bedford county has written a letter to the Secretary of the Free Trade League of New York, in which he gives out that the only free trade paper in the State is the Express, and the only Democratic tariff paper in the State is the Columbia Herald.

BEDFORD, PA., June 17, 1871.

MAHLON SANDS, ESQ.:

Dear Sir: Yours of the 5th inst., inquiring as to the progress of the Free Trade ideas in this part of the country, is received. My reply has been unavoidably delayed, but I now take pleasure in giving you an answer.

I. The Press of the Republican party in this State is, generally speaking, in the "Protectionist" interest. I know of but a single Republican newspaper in the entire Commonwealth which has favored a tariff for revenue, simply and solely, in preference to "protective" duties. That paper is printed in Lancaster, and is called the Express. It is edited with considerable ability. The Democratic press of the State is, I believe, unitedly in favor of "a revision of the present tariff." I know of but one avowed "Protectionist" journal, which is otherwise Democratic, the Columbia Herald. There is however, much timidity among Democratic editors on the subject of the tariff. The vast bounties derived from the Government, through high protective duties, by the capitalists of Pennsylvania engaged in coal speculations and iron and other manufactures diffuse an influence which is not easily resisted. The workmen in the coal mines and furnaces are either made to believe that fair wages depend on a high tariff, or, if knowing better, are coerced by their employers to vote for Protectionist candidates. Hence, the Democratic press fearing to imperil the success of other principles, held dearer, perhaps, than the principle of a strictly revenue tariff, fails to speak in as decided tones in advocacy of the latter as it would under more favorable circumstances. There is, however, a goodly number of outspoken revenue reform Democratic newspapers in the State, and much good has been accomplished by their boldness and consistency.

II. The People of the State are at present in favor of moderate "protective" duties on coal, pig-metal, and the various manufacturers of iron. I mean a majority of the State. Salt, hemp, wool, woolen and cotton manufacturers, and other articles which are not extensively produced here, they would prefer to have lightly taxed. They are not "Protectionists" from principle, but from what they conceive to be their interest. The exorbitant and probibitory rate on "Bessimer steel," however has turned the stomachs of many an ardent advocate of a high tariff. The dose is a little too strong, and produces nausea.

I have no doubt that, if a popper effort were made to educate the popular mind in this State on the subject of tariff reform, the present "Protectionist" majority might soon be turned into a minority. Tampleteer is the misssionary needed in Pennsylvania. Facts, figures, statistics, put up in brief form and attractive style, are wanted in every household. The ground is fallow. It needs but a dilligent sowing of the seed to cause the harvest to spring up in abundance.

III. The politicians are discribed in the first paragraph in reference to the press. They are under the domination of the monopolists. So far as the tariff is concerned they dare not call their souls their own. Look at the platforms adopted by the recent conventions of the two political parties, and you will see subserviency to the one hand and timidity on the other. Educate the people, and the politicians will learn quick enough.

On the whole, the sentiment of the people of this State, in reference to free trade doctrines, is much improved since last year. A few years ago an avowed free trader was a rara avis in this section. Now he is to be found here, there and everywhere. His voice is a little subdued as yet, but it will ere long be heard from the Delaware to the Ohio.

I am yours, very respectfully,

B. F. MEYERS.

MAKE A NOTE OF THIS.—"If any one speaks ill of thee," says Epictetus, "consider whether he hath truth on his side, and if so, reform thyself, that his censures may not affect thee." When Alexander was told that the very boys laughed at his singing. "Ah," said he, "then I must learn to sing better." Plato, being told that he had many enemies who spoke ill of him, said, "It is no matter; I shall live so that none will believe them." Hearing at another time that an intimate friend of his had spoken detractingly of him, he said, "I am sure he would not do it if he had not some reason for it." This is the surest as well as the noblest way of drawing the sting out of a reproach, and the true method of preparing a man for the great and only relief against the pains of calumny.

IT is one thing to indulge in playful rest, and another to be devoted to the pursuit of pleasure; and gaity of heart during the reaction after hard labor, and quickened by the satisfaction in the accomplished duty or perfected result is altogether compatible with, nay even in some sort arises naturally out of a deep internal seriousness of disposition.

BIRDS.—Over 40,000 canaries are brought to this country every year, and probably 10,000 more are raised for the purpose of sale. The number of bullfinches, robins and larks annually imported rise as high as 500 or 600 to each variety.—There are fully 3,000 Java sparrows brought to the United States by vessels from that region, and fully as many parrots are yearly sold in New York alone. Waxbills and other minute varieties are scarce, and seldom arrive in quantities of more than 100 or 200 each year Paroquets and love birds from Australia follow parrots in their relative importance.

Medical.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, Such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to cold and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts, are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgements we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remidies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either residence in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the Ague Cure daily

For Liver Complaints, arise from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

For Bilious Disorders and Liver complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

Perpared by DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., and sold all round the world.

SOMETHING NEW UNDER THE SUN.

A New Era In Medicine.

☞ Let the Suffering and Diseased read the following.

☞ Let all who have been given up by Doctors, and spoken of as incurable, read the following.

☞ Let all who can believe facts, and can have faith in evidence, read the following.

Know all men by these presents, That, on this, the Twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-six, personally came Joseph Haydrick to me known as such, and being duly sworn deposed as follows: "That he is the sole general agent for the United States and dependencies thereof for preparations or medicines known as Dr. Maggiel's Pills and Salve, and that the following certificates are verbatim copies to the best of his knowledge and belief.

JAMES SMITTER, Notary Public.
[L.S.] 14 Wall St. New York.

June 1st, 1866.

DR. MAGGIEL:—I take my pen to write you of my great relief and that the awful pain in my side has left me at last—thanks to your medicine. Oh, Doctor, how thankful I am that I can get some sleep. I can never write it enough. I thank you again and again, and am sure that you are really the friend of all sufferers. I could not help writing to you, and hope you will not take it amiss. JAMES MYERS,
116 Avenue, D.

This is to certify that I was discharged from the army with Chronic Diarrhœa, and have been cured by Dr. Maggiel's Pills.

WILSON HARVEY,
NEW YORK, April 7, 1866. 27 Pitt Street.

The following is an interesting case of a man employed in an Iron Foundry, who, in pouring melted iron into a dask that was damp and wet, caused an explosion. The melted iron was thrown around and on him in a perfect shower, and he was burnt dreadfully. The following certificate was given to me, by him, about eight weeks after the accident:

NEW YORK, Jan. 11, 1866.

My name is Jacob Hardy; I am an Iron Founder. I was badly burnt by hot iron in November last; my burns healed, but I had a running sore on my leg that would not heal: I tried Maggiel's Salve and it cured me in a few weeks. This is all true and anybody can see me at Jackson's Iron Works, 2d Avenue.

J. HARDY, 119 Greek St.

EXTRACTS FROM VARIOUS LETTERS.

"I had no appetite; Maggiel's Pills gave me a hearty one."

"Your Bills are marvellous."

"I send for another box, and keep them in the house."

"Dr. Maggiel has cured my headache that was chronic."

"I gave half of one of your Pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."

"My nausea of a morning is now cured.'

"Your box of Maggiel's Salve cured me of noises in the head. I rubbed some of your Salve behind my ears, and the noise has left."

"Send me two boxes, I want one for a poor family."

"I enclose a dollar, your price is 25 cents, but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."

"Send me five boxes of your Pills."

"Let me have three boxes of your Pills by return mail."

I Have over 200 such Testimonials as these, but want of space compels me to conclude.

FOR CUTANEOUS DISORDERS,

And all erruptions of the skin, the SALVE is most invaluable. It does not heal externally alone, but penetrates with the most searching effects to the very root of the evil.

☞ Let all who have been given up by Doctors, and spoken of as incurable, read the following.

☞ Let all who can believe facts, and can have faith in evidence, read the following.

Know all men by these presents, That, on this, the Twentieth day of June, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Eight Hundred and Sixty-six, personally came Joseph Haydrick to me known as such, and being duly sworn deposed as follows: "That he is the sole general agent for the United States and dependencies thereof for preparations of medicines known as Dr. Maggiel's Pills and Salve, and that the following certificates are verbatim copies to the best of his knowledge and belief.

JAMES SMETTER, Notary Public,
[L. S.] 14 Wall St. New York.

June 1st, 1866.

DR. MAGGIEL:—I take my pen to write you of my great relief and that the awful pain in my side has left me at last—thanks to your medicine. Oh, Doctor, how thankful I am that I can get some sleep. I can never write it enough. I thank you again and again, and am sure that you are really the friend of all sufferers. I could not help writing to you, and hope you will not take it amiss. JAMES MYERS,
116 Avenue, D.

This is to certify that I was discharged from the army with Chronic Diarrhœa, and have been cured by Dr. Maggiel's Pills.

WILSON HARVEY,
NEW YORK, April 7, 1866. 27 Pitt Street.

The following is an interesting case of a man employed in an Iron Foundry, who, in pouring melted iron into a flask that was damp and wet, caused an explosion. The melted iron was thrown around and on him in a perfect shower, and he was burnt dreadfully. The following certificate was given to me, by him, about eight weeks after the accident:

NEW YORK, Jan. 11, 1866.

My name is Jacob Hardy; I am an Iron Founder. I was badly burnt by hot iron in November last; my burns healed, but I had a running sore on my leg that would not heal: I tried Maggiel's Salve and it cured me in a few weeks. This is all true and anybody can see me at Jackson's Iron Works, 24 Avenue.

J. HARDY, 119 Greek St.

EXTRACTS FROM VARIOUS LETTERS.

"I had no appetite; Maggiel's Pills gave me a hearty one."

"Your Bills are marvellous."

"I send for another box, and keep them in the house."

"Dr. Maggiel has cured my headache that was chronic."

"I gave half of one of your Pills to my babe for cholera morbus. The dear little thing got well in a day."

"My nausea of a morning is now cured.'

"Your box of Maggiel's Salve cured me of noises in the head. I rubbed some of your Salve behind my ears, and the noise has left."

"Send me two boxes, I want one for a poor family."

"I enclose a dollar, your price is 25 cents, but the medicine to me is worth a dollar."

"Send me five boxes of your Pills."

"Let me have three boxes of your Pills by return mail."

I Have over 200 such Testimonials as these, but want of space compels me to conclude.

FOR CUTANEOUS DISORDERS,

And all erruptions of the skin, the SALVE is most invaluable. It does not heal externally alone, but penetrates with the most searching effects to the very root of the evil.

THAT LETTER.

We are asked twenty times a day to explain what the hubbub in the Democratic camp is all about. In order that we may not thus be annoyed any more we will explain. We understand it originated in this way.

The Hon. Peter Gray Meek, in his canvass for renomination finds himself coming out of the little end of the horn, becomes desperate and starts for Pennsualley, to retrieve his waning fortunes in that quarter. He circulates around among the faithful and exhibits a letter, purporting to have been written by Capt. Isaac Lytle, who happens to be the Secretary of the Republican County Committee, to Mr. James Chambers, a Republican of Patton township, of the highest standing, both as to political and personal character.

This letter while apparently written by a professed friend of J. H. Orvis, Esq., was so worded as to really damage that gentleman, and benefit the unscrupulous Peter, who was taking so much pains to circulate it. In fact it slaughtered Orvis in the house of his friends.

Well, after this letter has done its work, it turns out to be a letter, never received by the person to whom it professed to have been addressed, and never written by the person whose name was attached to it. In short, it was a bare faced unmitigated fraud.

Mr. Chambers was in town a day or two after the Democratic convention met, and asserted most positively, he never received that or any other letter from Capt. Lytle, and Capt. Lytle is equally emphatic in denying that he ever wrote that, or any other letter to Mr. Chambers.

Captain Lytle, also, states that immediately upon hearing of the matter he called upon the Hon Peter, whereupon the aforesaid Hon. Peter admitted and confessed to him, that he the said Hon. Peter wrote the letter himself while in Millheim, and knowing him (Capt. Lytle) to be a warm personal friend, attached his name to it, and that at the same time he begged him (Lytle) for God sake not to expose him; but to help him (Peter) to fix it up in some way. This is the story as briefly as we could state it.

It is not our fight and we care but little what course our Democratic friends may pursue in the premises. There are some members of that party, honorable men in every business transaction, who, we are informed, are determined to sift this trick, this fraud, and may we not say, forgery to the very bottom. In their estimation it establishes a dangerous precedent and opens the door to all kinds of fraud, trickery and corruption. They say, to vote for a candidate who will resort to such tricks, is to endorse his course and thus make themselves equally guilty.

But Meek in the meantime remains unmoved, and declares that there is no heart in politics—that all is fair in politics, &c. He, no doubt, endorses the Poet, when he says:

"A politician Proteus-like must alter
His face and habit; and like water seem
Of the same colour that the vessel is,
That doth contain it; vary his form
With the chameleon at each objects change."

UNDISMAYED by the failure of five successive years, the National Labor Union have convened once more at St. Louis to discuss that which they have ineffectually debated already; and, in addition, to prepare for a grander congress, to convene at Columbus, Ohio, at the close of October. The St. Louis brethren aim only to chart the course; the Columbus assembly will nominate a President and Vice President, and take steps to seek the goal at the ballot-box. —State Journal.

SPEER'S WINE.—Is the pure unadulterated juice of the Oporto grape, now being cultivated in this country by Mr. Speer. It is valuable for family use, and for its tonic and invigorating properties. It gives tone to the stomach and invigorates the system. In fashionable circles it has become the favorite table wine.—Intelligencer.

Druggists are agents for this wine.

REPUBLICAN VS. DEMOCRATIC ECONOMY.

The Republicans held the Senate during the session of 1870—The Democrats held it during the session of 1871. We submit the following, says the Harrisburg Telegraph, as proof that the Republican party is more economical in the appropriation of the public funds than the Democratic—and hence has a stronger claim on the confidence and support of the people:

THE TARIFF.

Perhaps some of our readers may like to compare the resolutions adopted by Republican and Democratic Conventions. The Republican State Convention of Pennsylvania, adopted May 17, 1871, resolution.

"Third. They declare their unalienable attachment to the principles of protection to home industry, in the levying of tariff duties in accordance with the wise policy which has existed since the foundation of the Government."

The Republican State Convention of Ohio, June 21, 1871, adopted resolution.

"Third. As it will be necessary and desirable to obtain from duties on imports, a large portion of the revenues needed to defray the expenses of the Government, to pay the interest on the national debt, and principal as it matures such duties should be adjusted as not to prejudice, but to promote the interest of every section and branch of industry as fast as possible."

The Democratic State Convention of Ohio, June 2, 1871, adopted resolution.

"Ninth. That we are in favor of a strictly revenue tariff, conforming to the theory and principles of all other just, and wise tax laws, and opposed to the protective theory, so called."

The following English testimony is of value, as showing that policy they consider best for this country.

"The ascendance of the Protectionist party in the [United] States continues to operate most favorably for the manufacturing interest there; it is no wonder that, under its benignant auspices, the enterprise in this direction is swelling to colossal proportions. The whole subject is one deserving the serious attention of our manufacturers."—Ryland's Iron Trade Circular.

A CARD.

HARRISBURG, August 9, 1871.

To the Members of the May Convention and the Friends of Temperance in Pennsylvania: The undersigned, members of the Central Committee appointed by the authority of the convention held in Philadelphia May 18th and 19th last, being present at Harrisburg, deem it their duty to that body and the cause generally to enter their solemn protest against the action of certain of their fellow members, who, in violation of the action of the convention in May, have called and are this day holding a convention to nominate independent candidates for Auditor General and Surveyor General, thereby ignoring the plan of action adopted in May last; and having been informed by the men engaged in this movement that it is purely an individual enterprise, and that no one could be allowed to take part in the proceedings unless willing to pledge himself to carry out the objects named in the call, and having failed to obtain any change of purpose on the part of those engaged in the revolutionary movement, we do hereby declare that the said convention and the nominations made by it are in violation of the action of the May convention, and without authority from the State Central Committee.

JOSHUA T. OWEN,
P. COOMBE,
EDWIN H. COATES.

For the REPUBLICAN.

PENNSVALLEY.

EDITORS OF THE REPUBLICAN:

There was a grand Pic-nic held in the Oak Grove near the Old Fort, on Friday last. As you were unable to be present on that occasion, as well as the many readers of your wide spread REPUBLICAN, I deemed it my duty as a participant to inform you of the affair.

The weather was fair and the morning delightful, old Sol shone forth in all his glory and brightness. About the middle of the forenoon the gay and festive Pic-nicers began to assemble, all accompanied with their large and well filled baskets of the finest delicacies of feminine art. After promenading a goodly while amongst the mighty oaks, the time arrived usually called dinner time when all present made a hasty retreat to where they deposited their provender. Gathering up their baskets they seperated into little groups and there celebrated the occasion of a Basket Pic-nic, by eating their dinner therefrom and enjoying all the pleasures that usually attend such meetings. After partaking of a bountiful repast, all feeling gay and lively, a celebrated String Band struck up a lively air to which all assented and a general dance ensued, affording all an opportunity of tripping to music the light fantastic ——. How gaily and lightly did the fair sylph-like forms of the merry dancers appear while they were being fanned occasionally by a gentle zephyr as they glided noiselessly through the dance with the grace and ease of so many visionary imaginations. The participants were not all from one place nor were they from everywhere.

Lewistown was largely represented by her fair daughters and gallant braves all of whom enjoyed themselves to the very utmost, being unsurpassable in the dance as well as in appearance.

Bellefonte with the dignity of Rome was not to be surpassed or rivalled by any of her sister towns, brought forth a large host of her fairest beauties and superb dancers arrayed in gorgeous splendor, which did honor to Centre county, and the occasion. Boalsburg too, with a spirit of taste and refinement was not want to be last, but took her place amongst the first, and many other similar places of smaller note we could mention that were not all asleep.

But, alas! Poor, feeble, week-kneed and double front doored C—— H—— could not make an effort; to attempt to compete would be too great a sacrifice, but passing by sneaked away out of sight (save a few) in their huckleberry wagons, and concealed themselves in a large cave under Brush Mountains. After the twilight had drawn its veil of darkness over the day intense enough to render everything obscure, they made their exit from their place of concealment, and under cover of the darkness they reached home in safety. Feeling somewhat emaciated by their close confinement and long journey, until, of faint heart and little faith, relief came to them through the gentlemanly and clever landlord of that place who furnished them with a fully equiped conveyance, and defraying one-half of the expense, the party embarked for Potters Mills to take tea.

While we have been wandering away from our own place of amusement, we return again and find the party just as we left them. Dancing the principle object, affording a beautiful sight for those not engaged, to see the dancers whirl about in the open air within a circle of brilliant lights. At twelve o'clock they broke up, all departing for their homes in peace and quietness. The next day, where all was excitement, quietness reigned supreme. No roughs to interfere or molest the quietness of the occasion. It was admitted by all present to be a grand success.

MCCRACKEN, JR.

CENTRAL PENNSYLVANIA AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—The Third Annual Exhibition of this Society (formerly Altoona Park Association), will be held at the City of Altoona on Tuesday, Wednesday Thursday and Friday, September 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 1871. The grounds are the largest and most complete, and the driving course equal to the best in the State. The very liberal premiums offered by the Managers must command the attention and attendance of all parties rearing good stock, or interested in agricultural and other inventions. The following summary of premiums will convey an idea of their magnitude:

Thoroughbred horses	$399 00
Roadsters	89 00
Horses for general purposes	121 00
Draft horses	105 00
Matched, driving and saddle horses	60 00
Jacks and mules	57 00
Thoroughbred, native and grade cattle	912 00
Sheep and swine	204 00
Farm and yard fowls	149 00
Farm implements	150 00

And all other premiums to correspond.

The speed premiums amount to $2,000 divided into seven purses: One of $25; one of $400; one of $100; one of $50; one of $700; one of $500; one of $250—the whole making over $6,000 in premiums for the present season.

The complete success of former exhibitions of the Society, and the general satisfaction given, should guarrantee a larger tournout this season than heretofore. Entries of blooded stock and valuable inventions are being made, and there will be beauty and diversity to look upon.

Excursion tickets will be issued from all stations on the main line and branches of the Pennsylvania Railroad, from Monday until Friday, good for return rip on Saturday. 33-2t.

PUNGENT PROTECTIONISMS.

We know not to what paper to credit the following—but they are good:

Free trade means (to native industry), smelling another's beef roasting. Protection means, eating the beef.

Therefore, Protection is a "square meal"—Free Trade a fast.

Protection is poverty prohibited—Free Trade is ruin recommended.

Protection means taking out a fire insurance policy—Free Trade means setting fire to your own frame building without being insured.

Producing raw material for export, and importing it as manufactured goods—duty free—is like giving your neighbor your own hen's eggs to hatch, and then buying the chickens from him.

Protection means keeping your fences in repair—Free Trade means sueing your neighbor for his cattle's trespass, being non-suited for negligence—and paying the costs.

America possesses the almighty dollar, and Protection will enable her to keep it. Free Trade will give her in exchange an English shilling—with silver at a discount. Will America swap?

If "the longest way round is the nearest way home"—then exporting raw material and placing no tariff on manufactured imports, is the direct road to prosperity. But experience proves that it isn't, therefore, that little "if" is very properly italicized.

The difference between Free Trade and a protective policy is—that in one case the stable door is kept locked, in the other, it is only fastened when the steed has been stolen. England is thinking of locking up their stable; this significant fact should make America inquire, have I got a spare horse to lose?

So much for British Free Trade! Shall we, too, try it, and with the same or a worse result?

THE Republican party has a good record of clear and well defined principles. The trumpet which has been sounded out through the land, from time to time, has never given an uncertain sound, nor have the public ever been left in uncertainty as to the policy to be carried out in case of success. And the issues proposed have always been real and practical, and vital to the country. No sham or trumped-up departures have been allowed. They have been an enthusiastic, working, successful party, because they have had something to do. They were employed by the people first to save the Government and next to put it on a basis of future security. The first work they have done, and the second they are yet engaged in. The most important part of this is done, but there is yet too much of importance to be accomplished to make it safe to entrust the work to a fresh set of workmen. The "new departure" of the Democracy promises not to destroy what has been done, but does not promise to continue the work. On the contrary they would stop it short.—Press.

Girls and Women.

When a young girl reaches the age of fifteen or sixteen years, she begins to think of the mysterious subject of matrimony; a state, the delights of which her youthful imagination shadows forth in the most captivating forms. It is made the topic of light and incidental discourse among her companions, and it is recurred to with increasing interest every time it is brought upon the tapis. When she grows a little older she ceases to smatter about matrimony, and thinks more intently on the all important subject. It engrosses her thoughts by day, her dreams by night, and she pictures to herself the felicity of being wedded to the youth of whom she cherishes a secret, but consuming flame. She surveys herself in the mirror, and, as it generally "tells a flattering tale," she turns from it with a pleasing conviction that her beauty will enable her to conquer the heart of the most obdurate, and that whosoever else may die in the state of "single blessedness," she is destined to become, ere many years roll by, a happy bride.

From the age of eighteen to twenty is "the very witching time" of female life. During that period the female heart is more susceptible to the soft and tender influences of love than any other; and we appeal to our fair readers to say whether, if inclination was alone consulted in the business, more marriages would not take place during this season, than in any by which it is preceeded or followed. It is the grand climax of love; and she who passes it without entering into the state of matrimony, may chance to pass several years of her life ere she is caught in the meshes of Hymem. The truth is, that the majority of women begin to be more thoughtful when they have turned the age of twenty. The giddiness of the girl gives place to the sobriety of the woman. Frivolity is succeeded by reflection, and reason reigns where passion previously held undisputed sway. The care and anxieties of life press themselves more palpably. They tend to weaken the effect of the sanguine anticipation of unmingled felicity in the marriage state, which the mind had formed in its youthful day-dreams. In short, to use a common phrase, let women after twenty look before they leap.

From Better to Worse.

Forty years years ago literature meant learning, and was supported by common sense. Refined nonsense had no advocates, and was pretty generally kicked out of doors.

Forty years ago young ladies of the first respectability learned music—but it was the music of the spinning wheel, and they learned the necessary steps of dancing in following it. Their piano forte was a loom, their parasol a broom handle, and their novels a Bible.

Forty years ago the young gentlemen hoed corn, chopped wood at the door, and went to school in the winter to learn reading, writing and arithmetic.

Forty years ago there were no such things as balls in the summer, and few in the winter, except snow-balls.

Forty years ago if a mechanic proposed to do you work you might depend on his word; it would be done.

Forty years ago, when a mechanic finished his work, he was paid for it.

Forty years ago printers were paid, and were therefore enabled to pay their debts. What a falling off!

Advice to the Young.

There are two things which greatly tend to our moral and spiritual welfare—a pious mother and good companions. As we are all blessed with a good mother who watches and takes care of us until we are able "to do for ourselves," it becomes our first and chief duty to obey her and do as she commands. A mother is the vine of which we are the branches, and, as we grow older and stronger, we should aid her. Oh! happy is he who is blessed with a kind and religious mother. His infancy will glide as the rippling brook, and unless he entirely forgets her pious maxims and Christian principles, which is almost impossible, life will seem as but a pleasant dream. The germs of religion springing up, if tenderly cared for, and cautiously watched, will yeild fruit a hundred fold. But, as our mother cannot always be near us, we should, on our entry into the world, judiciously select companions who will be capable of honorably filling the place vacated by her—companions, in whose society we can mingle without falling into sin, and whose conversation will not defile and poison our ears with slanderous speeches. If we do this, what agony and trouble will be spared in our old age, and with what boundless joy will our spirit take its flight heavenward, and receive from the divino lips of the Judge of judges the reward of the good steward, "Come, ye blessed of my father, and receive the Kingdom prepared for you.

A Life Thought.

I heard a man who had failed in business, and whose furniture was sold at auction, say that when the cradle and the crib and the piano went, tears would come and he had to leave the house to be a man. Now, there are thousands of men who have lost their pianos, but who have found better music in the sound of their children's voices and footsteps going cheerfully down with them to poverty, than any harmony of corded instrument. Oh! how blessed is bankruptcy when it saves a man's children! I see many men bringing up their children as I should bring up mine, if, when they were ten years old, I should lay them on a dissecting table and cut the sinews of their arms and legs, so that they could neither walk nor use their hands, but only sit still and be fed. The rich men put the knife of indolence and luxury to their children's energies, and they grow up fatted, lazy calves, fitted for nothing at twenty-five but to drink deep and to squander wide; and the father must be a slave all his life, in order to make beasts of his children. How blessed, then, is the stroke of disaster which sets the children free, and gives them over to the hard but kind bosom of poverty, who says to them "Work" and working makes them men!

Plenty Coal.

The coal supply of Great Britain has within the last few years been the subject of great anxiety among the inhabitants of that country, in consequence of statistics and deductions therefrom, showing that the available sources for getting coal would be worked out in one hundred years. At the time these assertions were made, a Board of Commissioners was appointed by the British Government to examine into the matter. These commissioners are about completing their labors, and it is stated, will report that, assuming a certain annual increase in the rate of consumption, a supply of coal existed in Great Britian and Ireland sufficient to last from eight hundred to one thousand years.

FUSS IS NOT WORK.—The fact that fuss is not work you may see illustrated almost any day, and almost anywhere. As you go along the street, you see two horses harnessed together before a car. One of them makes a great fuss, as if he had all the world behind him, and was in eager haste to get it just where he wants it to be. He dances and prances, jumps up and down, and springs into the collar with all his might, and then falls back from it because all does not give way to him. The other makes no fuss at all. He stops and starts at the signal, wastes no strength in violence, but puts his whole weight into the collar just when it is needed. The one makes the fuss, the other does the work.

IT has been observed that, for some reason or other, when lady friends speak of each other's charms they seldom hit upon the most attractive, and that whenever they touch upon another's defects, they are sure to select the most prominent.

THE worst appearances often have happy consequences, as the best lead many times into the greatest misfortunes.

A MOTHER'S INFLUENCE.—A man finds he cannot make his way in the world without honesty; so that, although his father's example may do much, he has to depend upon his own exertions; he must work, he must be honest, or he cannot attain to an enviable rank. But the tender soothings of a mother, her sympathy, her devotedness, her forgiving temper—all this sinks deep in a child's heart; and let him wander ever so wide, let him err, or let him lead a life of virtue, the remembrance of all this comes like a holy calm over his heart, and he weeps that he has offended her, or he rejoices that he has listened to her disinterested, gentle admonition.

ONE DROP AT A TIME.—Have you ever watched an icicle as it formed? You notice how it froze one drop at a time until it was a foot long or more. If the water was clear the icicle remained clear, and sparkled brightly in the sun; but if the water was but slightly muddy the icicle looked foul, and its beauty was spoiled. Just so our characters are forming; one little thought or feeling at a time adds its influence. If each thought be pure and right, the soul will be lovely and sparkle with happiness; but if impure and wrong, there will be final deformity and wretchedness.

WHITE FISH, Herring, Mackerel, &c., at BURNSIDE & THOMAS'

Sleep.

One would think that a man of sufficient good sense to edit a newspaper, would know enough, in this year of our Lord and of science, to be able to go to bed and to sleep at a time calculated to give sufficient rest to the tired organs of the body corporate, and thus enable him to lay up a stock of health for future use. Health is the most important capital an editor can possess. For it not only gives the creations or combinations of his brain a healthy quality, but keeps his mind alive to what is going on around him. In referring, some time since, to the food most desirable for the use of brain-workers, we met with enough of unhoped-for approval to encourage us to refer to the ideas of men whose authority in other matters of hygiene is acknowledged, and these writers not only insist on the necessity of sleep, but give instances of intellectual men who have lost their lives and narrowed their usefulness by carelessness in attending to those principles which govern the laws of rest. Perhaps the following facts will convey a more powerful influence than either logic or any hygienic theory could hope to have. Unluckily, neither hygiene nor the advice of philosophers furnish an opiate for such unhappy editors as give credit and dream wide awake over the possibility of their labors :—

"Leibnitz sometimes passed three consecutive days and nights in the same chair, resolving a problem that interested him; an excellent custom, as Fontenelle observes, to accomplish a labor, but a very unhealthy one. The Abbe de la Caille, a famous astronomer, had a fork invented in which he adjusted his head, and in this position passed the night in astronomical observations, without knowing any other enemies than sleep and the clouds, without suspecting that there could be any more delightful way of employing those silent hours which revealed to him the harmony of the universe. Thus he contracted an inflammation of the lungs which carried him off in a short time. Girsdet did not like to labor during the day. Seized in the middle of the night by a fever of inspiration, he arose, lit the chandelier suspended in his studio, placed upon his head an enormous hat covered with candles, and in this strange costume he painted for hours. No one ever had a feebler constitution or a more disordered state of health than Girsdet."

LITTLE BY LITTLE.—A poor women had a supply of coals laid at her door by a charitable neighbor. A very little girl came out with a fireshovel and began to take a shovelful at a time, and carry it to a sort of bin in the cellar. I said: "Do you expect to get all that coal in with your little shovel?" She was quite confused with my question, but her answer was striking. "Yes, sir, if I work long enough." Humble worker, make up for your want of ability by abundant continuance in well doing, and your life work will not be trivial. The repetition of small efforts will effect more than the occasional use of great talents.

WITH most of us idleness is the parent not merely of uneasiness, but withal of fretfulness, malevolence, and the whole host of evil passions. The phrase "aching void" may be ridiculous to those who criticise grammatically, but is true to those who feel humanly. To supply this void is an object, and moreover a certain effect, of a regular, and sustained, and judicious method of self-instruction. The used key is bright. If the steel be wrought up and refined to a high temper, the cloudiness of the vapor will perish from it almost at the instant that it is breathed upon it.

CHILD TRAINING.—The great doctrine to teach a child is, that he must labor for what he wants. Is it riches? let him stop envying those who have made money and go to work to make it himself. Is it the position which character gives? let him build up a good reputation for himself. Is it talents? let him study to improve his mind. Possibly he may come honestly by somebody else's money, without working for it, but he can't inherit an education. Knowledge requires brain work, and there is no getting over it. A man may die and leave his money but he can't leave him his education.

ENORMOUS WASTE.—It is said that the improved lands in South Carolina are worth $20,000,000, while the fences that enclose them have actually cost $16,000,000. The fences in New York have cost $144,000,000; those of Ohio, $115,000,000; and, according to an estimate made by Nicholas Biddle thirty years ago, the fences of Pennsylvania had then cost $100,000,000. The fences of the whole Union are estimated at $1,300,000,000.

JUST SO.—Many think it inconvenient to be gracious, irksom to be pious, disreputable to be devout, foolish to be too exact. They would fain have the crown without the fight, the reward without the service. They would enjoy the sweets of soul-health, but not lose the advantages of associating with the leprous and defiled.

WE should be careful to practice, and treat the humblest menial with courtesy as delicate as we would show the children of affluence and honor. So shall we transfuse in them a corresponding refinement, which will tend eventually, perhaps, to make them purer in morals and more elevated in mind.

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.

Sung to the tune of Yankee Doodle.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now complete connections made,
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedy and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about
And wore out all their clothing.

CHORUS, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of Spring and Summer clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

People who travel by other routes, and also people who, instead of travelling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and seasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest price.

Do not fail to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere; if you do not, we are sure you will be sorry that you did not. Our goods are put down to the lowest figure. We sell whole suits, according to quality.

HOME NEWS.

At Rankin's Book Store. Fifty vols. for $15.

The Red Collar.—Jacob Shrom has hung out his new red collar sign on Bishop street. His old customers, and those in want of harness will please take notice.

The work on the Snow Shoe round house at this place is progressing rapidly, and when completed will be a model railroad building.

The enterprising lumbermen of Beech Creek are erecting another large splash dam on that stream, near the mouth of Hays' Run. It will cost about $50,000.

The street along the burnt district, especially in front of the Burnside & Thomas, corner, would present a much better appearance if the stone were a little more scattered over said street. They are such nice things to drive over.

A. Sternburg.—This celebrated merchant is, receiving new goods almost daily. His customers are increasing, and he declares that he will not be undersold in the town. Sternburgs is a good place to buy. New advertisement next week.

A jolly old Democrat was heard gaily singing the following last night, as he was trudging down High street:

Which I wish to remark,
And my language is plain,
That for ways that are dark,
And tricks that are vain
Peter G. Meek is peculiar!

Visit.—Our old friend L. Houseal, formerly of the Brockerhoff, but now of the Montour House, Lock Haven, paid our sanctum a visit yesterday. He is looking hale and hearty, and his body, although large as usual, is scarcely large enough to contain his large and genial soul. May success attend him.

Groceries.—Messrs. Ruhl & Gault are, without doubt, worthy of great praise for the efforts they are making to supply the citizens of Bellefonte and vicinity with good and cheap groceries, hams, cheese, canned fruits, dried fruits, &c. They cannot be beaten by any establishment in town or country. Give them a trial.

Fire.—On last Thursday night the Plaining Mill at Milesburg was burned to ashes. The machinery and five or six piles of lumber was totally destroyed. The mill was owned by Mr. Levi, and was leased and run by the Messrs. Campbells. There was no insurance either by owner or tenants. We have not learned the particulars. The cause of the fire, or the manner in which it caught is envolved in mystery.

Fatal Accident.—Green Shearer, aged about 24 years, while engaged in cutting saw logs on Beech Creek, near the mouth of Twin Runs, on J. Mayes job, was killed instantly about 10 o'clock on Monday morning, 21st inst. He was, at the time, engaged with another man in sawing a tree, and when partly sawed off it split up, flew back and fell on him killing him instantly. Mr. Shearer lived in Eagleville, this county, and leaves a wife and young child, together with a large number of relatives and friends to mourn his sad fate. He was respected by all who knew him.

Hand Broken.—We were sorry to learn of the misfortune that so recently befell the competent and accomplished Miss Aggie E. Porter, youngest daughter of R. H. Porter, and mistress of the Old Fort Hotel. On Friday evening last, while attempting to close the blinds of a window, the sash having been previously raised and thought to be secure, but probably from the jar caused by the wind, it came down, striking the young lady's hand with such a velocity as to fracture several bones. The hand was dressed by Dr. Vanvalzah, of Spring Mills, and is doing well.

Who Can Beat This on Snakes.—Daniel Nancarrow, one day last week, was in the woods, about six miles North of Beech Creek Borough, cutting stone, while coming in he came accross two large rattle-snakes, and set about killing them. The snakes made considerable rattling when the first thing he knew, he was surrounded by rattle snakes.—Having a good stone hammer in his hand, he made battle, with the snakes, and hammered away until the last snake was killed. On counting up the result of his fight, he found seven huge overgrown rattle-snakes, and seventy smaller ones dead, on about 20 feet square of ground. How many got away he does not know. Mr. Nancarrow is a good republican and death on snakes. Copperheads take notice.

For the Republican.

A BURGLAR SHOT DEAD.

Mr. Editor:—A man unknown in this neighborhood was shot dead by John S. Thompson, at Martha Furnace, this County, on Sunday night the 20th inst., whilst attempting to brake into the store of J. I. Thompson. The particulars are as follows:—Mr. J. S. Thompson, has a bed-room in the store house, in which he sleeps generally; but has not heretofore been in the habit of sleeping there on Sunday night. For some cause (which he cannot account for himself,) he slept there on the night in question. About midnight he was awakened by a noise, as it some person was trying to break through the window of his bedroom. He slipt from his bed, went to his stand for his revolver.

In doing this he made a slight noise, the burglar became alarmed and he heard him move away as if walking on his tiptoes. Mr. Thompson, after procuring his revolver, (which is a Colts Navy) sat down on the bed to await events. He was not kept long in suspense, however, for he soon heard him at the door. Thinking to scare him he leveled his revolver to fire through the transom above the door (which is made of wire screen). Just as he fired a light was struck on the outside. As soon as he fired he heard a noise outside as of a man jumping from the platform. He immediately opened the door and went outside and fired a second shot for the purpose of giving the alarm and bringing help, but he saw no person, neither did any one come to his assistance.

Thinking the burglar or burglars had left, he went back to his room and composed himself as best he could 'til morning. But what was his surprise and horror on going out in the morning, to find a man dead. It appears that the burglar had procured an empty flour barrel, upon which he had mounted for the purpose of either breaking through this screen work, or of reconoitering the premises, when the unlucky or lucky (unlucky for him and lucky for Mr. Thompson,) shot penetrated his brain and sent his guilty soul into eternity. He fell backwards, and clear from the platform to the ground, where he was found in the morning.

An inquest was held on the body by Justice D. Parsons, who summoned the following jury:—Jos. F. Williams, Hugh Adams, John Q. Mills, Jacob Cronemiller, G. W. Miles, John M'Mullin, John Wagner, Samuel Stephens, Jno Williams, D. H. Bumgardner, E. R. Williams, and Thomas Williams, who gave a verdict in accordance with the above stated facts and entirely exonerating Mr. Thompson of any blame in the matter.

The burglar is supposed to be from twenty five to thirty years of age, five feet nine inches in hight, light brown hair, grey eyes, sandy mustach, fair complexion, rather thin face, and hands soft as though he was not used to labor. He had on dark green casimer pants, with black cord on side seams, brown straw hat with broad brim. He had an anchor marked with Indian ink, or tattooed on his left hand, a ring on back of same hand marked in the same way. He also wore a black corn cravat, calf skin boots, brown casimer undershirt and fine muslin overshirt with blue stripes on breast, and he had lost one front tooth. He had in his pockets a small seven chambered revolver each chamber loaded; a lot of cartridges for same, a small flat file, a small screw driver, a small four-bladed pocket knife, a pocket comb, a pocket looking glass, a bunch of friction matches, a piece of soap, an envelope addressed to Annie Robinson, 77 Virgin Alley, Pittsburgh, also some other name and address in pencil which we could not decipher, a paper printed in New York, called the "Days Doings"—said paper not, being calculated to promote virtue—but nothing was found on him that would give a clue to his name or place of residence. Although hundreds of people saw him, not one knew him.

Mr. Thompson, (although he feels sorry that he killed the burglar) deserves the praise of all law abiding citizens, for ridding the world of one dangerous character.

Locust.

St. John's Cemetery.—In April 1871 a five acre lot was purchased of Henry Brockerhoff, Esq., by the Catholic Congregation of Bellefonte, for a cemetery. The cost of the ground, was twenty two hundred dollars. In the month of July two interments were made in the cemetery; previous to the interments, the grounds were laid out in a very beautiful style.

The Cemetery is 800 feet long by 300 feet wide. Through the centre from North to South is a 30 feet avenue, and from East to West a 15 feet avenue. In the centre is a mound 40 feet in diameter, around which is a road 16 feet wide to connect with the centre avenues. From the centre of the mound stands a rustic cross 35 feet high, around which ivy is intended to grow.

From this centre the grounds are laid out in squares and avenues; each square 22 by 32 feet and the avenue from East to West 5 feet 6 inches; and avenues from North to South 8 feet wide. On either side of the cemetery is an avenue 10 feet wide and 14 feet from the fence. At each corner of the cemetery is a very beautiful mound intended for flowers. Men are now at work grading the front of cemetery and beautifying the road and side walk. In a few weeks an ornamental fence will surround the whole cemetery and five hundred trees will be planted there next Spring.

On last Sunday, August 20th, the grounds were blessed by Rev. Father McIlvaine, delegated to do so by the Rt. Rev. Bishop of the Diocese. The procession formed at the Church in the following manner: Cross, Altar boys, Pastor, Sunday School with banners, Angel Sodality with banners, the American Flag carried by six young men. The young ladies of the congregation in white; the Temperance Association with banner and regalia then in regular order the congregation.

The procession marched to the cemetery and the blessing took place as is marked in the Ritual for such occasions.

Rev. Father M'Ilvaine deserves great credit for his industry and enterprise in the consumation of this work. Had he not expostuleted, implored and entreated his congregation, not a move would have been made. As it is he has provided work for the living and a beautiful home for the dead. Beautiful as this Cemetery will be, it is a pleasing thought to know that it cannot hold the dust of its sleeping tenants forever As God's book is true, we can say to this and all other cemeteries;

"But know that thou must render up the dead,
And with high interest too! they are not thine
But only in thy keeping for a season,
Till the great promis'd day of restitution;
When loud diffusive sounds of brazen trump
Of strong-lung'd cherub shall alarm the captive,
And rouse the long, long sleepers into life,
Daylight and liberty.

Harness.—Since the fire, Jacob Shrom, the first class saddler and harness maker, has broke out in a new place. Bishop street opposite T. R. Reynolds marble front.

BRUSHVALLEY ITEMS.

.....Rebersburg is a neat village in Miles twp., containing one Hotel, two Stores several very fine residences, the normal school of Centre county under the Superintendence of Prof. Magee, a Blacksmith shop and a score or more of Democrats, indeed these latter are about as thick in this vicinity as green flies around a dead carcass. We do not think the figure a bad one, for the Democratic party is begining to stink in the nostrals of a great many of the honest meaning men, hereabouts. May the stench increase, is our humble prayer until it becomes too odious for the greenest Democratic fly.

.....One of the finest residences in this place is the one belonging to Dr. Hillibish, a very clever, gentlemanly man and a son-in-law of the late Judge Strohecker. The Dr., is a Democrat but we must do him the justice to say, he is one of the whitest ones, we have ever seen. He has remarkable good sense and does not believe that it disgraces a man to be a Republican, or that men should be proscribed for opinion sake. He was an out-and-out war man all through the slave kolders rebellion. He is opposed to corruption of every kind, and when he attempts to punish politicians who deceive him his blows, are like the kicks of a mule. May he long live to enjoy the comforts by which he is surrounded.

.....Col. R. H. Strohecker, a live Republican, a christian gentleman and an enterprising business man, lives near this place. He has a lovely home. We are sorry we did not get to see him. He may be called the leader of the Republicans in this place, and for the sake of Justice and Truth and the Salvation of the country we wish he had more of them to lead. Work on Col., work ever. A constant droping, it is said, will wear away the hardest rock

.....The Hotel in Rebersburg is kept by D. W. Harter. He is an accomodating landlord, has good beds and keeps a first rate table. He is a Democrat, pretty white, for he reads the Republican. We would recommend his house to the traveling community.

.....Frank & Haines, have a fine store. It is large and well filled with goods. They are good men and are doing a safe, and paying business.

.....H. C. Diehl, a live and energetic man, and one who has never bowed the the knee to Baal, although he is in a strange land, and an enemies country. He is engaged in the lightning rod business. He is putting them upon nearly all of those large and well filled Democratic barns. He is also largely engaged in the manufacture of Tin and Sheet ron ware.

.....Dr. E. Hart, of Madisonburg, formerly of Harris twp., and whom we have known from boy-hood, is practicing his Profession very successfully in this valley and in Pennsvalley. He is constantly employed. See card in another column.

.....Forster & Bro., are two very fine young gentlemen, energetic and intelligent Republicans and own the fine residence, farm, grist mill, &c., known as Centre Mills. This is the name of the Post office. This place is situated about mid-way between Millheim and Rebersburg.

.....The crops in Brushvalley are exceedingly good. The oats and corn are beautiful this day (August 5th,) to look upon. The oats are being harvested and the corn is continuing to grow into money, while the farmer sleeps, or goes with a merry heart whistling to his work. We could not help thinking while we gazed upon the fruitful fields, and the large, well filled Bank Barns and beautiful residences of these rich farmers, how merciful and good God had been to them, in sending the sunshine and the rain, notwithstanding so many of them, aided the slave holders rebellion and still continue to vote the Democratic ticket. But then we remembered that the Bible tells us He sends his rain alike upon the just, and the unjust.

.....We have many more items of interest and personal notices for citizens of Brushvalley, but these must suffice for the present.

MILLHEIM ITEMS.

.....Everybody knows where Millheim or Treck-stettle, as it was called in an early day, is. It is in Pennsvalley, Penn twp., near the Hotel of Ex-Sheriff Wm. L. Musser, and the office of the Berichter, a German Democratic paper, of which our genial friend Phil D. Stover, is editor and proprietor. Millheim, we are pleased to say, disappointed us. We had not visited it for ten years. It is really a live place.

.....The Post Master is our old friend Saml. Sivels, formerly of Potters Bank. He and his amiable lady live in love and unity and enjoy the good things of this life amazingly. The plowshare of time, as yet, have made but few wrinkles upon their brows. Mr. Sivels, is a good, attentive officer, loved and respected alike by Republicans and Democrats.

.....J. D. Foot, a most indefatigable man, and true Republican, lives here, has a store, a Foundry and Machine shops, where he makes castings of all kinds, builds threshing machines, farming implements, plows, cultivators, &c., but just now is making a specialty of manufacturing the great Pennsylvania cultivator—for sterring fallows. As we road through the valley we saw more than twenty of them at work. They do the work of six plows and are drawn by two horses. We are not certain we have the right name of this cultivator, as we have lost our notes and write from memory. But we would advise our farmers all to go and see it or write to J. D. Foot, Millheim for further particulars.

.....Johnathan Kreamer, Esq., Proprietor of the National Hotel, whose advertisement will be seen in another column of the Republican, is the livest man to-day as he is the largest—in Millheim. We say this first, because it is true, and second, because he knows the use of printers ink and is not too stingy to use it. Mr. Kreamer, is the man who does know how to keep a Hotel. His beds and bedding, his furniture, his carpets, and everything about the house are of the very best. His table is not excelled by our Bellefonte Hotels. His stable is large and good and he has one of the most attentive Hostlers in the state. Mr. Kreamer, was a candidate before the late Democratic convention for the office of Associate Judge, but the Court House Ring killed him.

.....We have already said the Berichter office is here. We were in it. It is a neat little dutch office. The type is dutch and they talk dutch, and Peter Dan, makes them do it pretty effectively. It is read by nearly every body in this place and is rapidly increasing its circulation. We saw the books and, therefore, we know. If it would only talk good Republican dutch we would like it much better; but as it is, we can only wish Phil. D., success financially. He is a good fellow and deserves it.

.....Sheriff Musser, keeps a good Hotel in this place, is doing a good business but if he would advertise in the Republican it would greatly increase his business. Just here let us say, it would pay for every Hotel in the County, to use printers ink. It only costs from $12 to 15 per year for one or two squares. Sheriff Musser, is the old wheel horse of Democracy in Penn twp. His labors for the party, for years were unceasing. Night and day, "year in and year out," he has worked. And all for what? To be told by young mustache that "he is played out and don't amount to anything any more in the party." Well, Sheriff, some of the young men now-a-days do know more than their fathers, at least they think so. We saw the fight. Can your manhood endure this treatment for ever? Strike for your alters and your fires. Assert your manhood, maintain your rights, and let them know that you are a freeman.

.....J. W. Snook, Esq., has the largest and best building in this place. It is a large three story brick, we did not learn its dimensions, but we can safely say, it is the largest and best brick building in Pennsvalley. Mr. Snook, has a large store, a good run of good custom, and is a clever energetic man.

....Amos Alexander & Son, also, have a very fine store here. Mr. Alexander, as will be remembered was, formerly, County Commissioner. He is a pretty clever man; but an untiring red-hot Democrat. He suits the locality very well. The firm is doing a good business.

.....The Marble Yard of B. O. Dininger, is in the East suburb of the town. Ben is a clever energetic mechanic, but he does not take the Republican. If not why not? He is a good workman, doing a good business. So much for Millheim. More anon.

DIED.

Centre County Normal Institution.—On a recent visit to the beautiful and brisk little town of Rebersburg, we found the Normal Institute in a flourishing condition. It puts on no ostentatious show but proves itself, under the efficient management of County Superintendent Magee, one of the best institutes in the State. It now numbers between 50 and 60 students, and has arrivals of new pupils almost daily. It is thought that the Institute will number from 70 to 80 students. The special purpose of the school being professional improvement, all the students are required to pursue a certain course of study prescribed by the Principal, tending to that end. All are required to recite daily in mental philosophy, school economy and methods of instructions; also on alternate days physiology, map drawing, penmanship, &c. As to the other branches commonly taught in the public schools, such as written and mental arithmetic, geography, grammar, history, etc., pupils are advised to take up only such of those as they are most deficient in. The object of the school being not so much to teach these branches in themselves, as the manner of teaching them. Pupils should be proficient in these branches before entering the Normal school. We were informed that it was only as a matter of necessity that classes were formed in these branches as the teacher's course is sufficient in itself for the short time. The rules and regulations of the Institute are selected with many modifications from those practiced at the different State Normal Schools and seem to have a healthy and beneficial influence. In addition to the lecturers already announced, N. L. Atwood, Esq., will lecture before the Institute on Thursday evening, Sept. 14th. —Democratic Watchman.

We have copied the above notice of the Normal School of Centre county, from the Democratic Watchman, and given it the proper credit, for two reasons: First, because it is a good notice of the school, and well merited. Second to teach "Joe" how to do the right thing. Now, we never growl when an Editor appropriates one or two of our locals and uses them without the proper credit; but we think fifteen or twenty in one week is asking a little too much. It is a lucky thing for the Watchman's local columns that we issue on Wednesday.

The Logan Fire Co., No. 1. at a special meeting held on Monday night, August 21st, adopted the following resolutions:—

Resolved, That we feel it our duty to return thanks to Misses Rebecca M'Ginley, Mary Kline, Amanda Galbraith and Addie Weaver, for their handi-work and excellent taste in furnishing flowers and decorating our Hose Carriage for the parade on the day of pic-nic.

Resolved, That we hereby tender our sincere thanks to the ladies who were so kind in giving their assistance in setting and waiting upon the tables.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the different papers of Bellefonte for publication.

It is a very easy feat, to make an egg stand on end, that is if you know how it is done. So it is an easy matter to make a hole through rock, down! down!! down!!! to the reservoir of cool water below—if you have the tools and understand how to use them. We were convinced of this upon visiting on Saturday last, the farm of E. C. Humes, where the operation of boring for water is in full progress, (now 29 feet below the surface,) under the management of Mathew & Wesley Adams. They certainly understand the business, judging from the machinery and the success attending their efforts thus far.

They make it a business and they can be consulted as to terms, &c., by calling upon them at Bellefonte, or any information given upon request by letters. They are reliable and can be depended upon in any thing they undertake in that line.

Call on Jacob Shrom and buy your harness, you will not only get a good article, but save money.

Ladies and gentlemen who may have heard of a certain "Model" in town, are invited to call at corner of Bishop and Allegheny streets, and see, not the "Model merely, but the 'machine itself' in successful operation, throwing off the best quality of Note and Billet paper at 10, 15 and 20 cts.

A Live Man.—It is universally conceeded by all, that Levi A. Miller is a live business man. He has given up the tobacco agency and is now engaged in the store of John B. Awl. He is doing a splendid business. Since he has taken charge of the store the cash receipts have more than doubled. His old friends will follow him, no matter where he goes. Success, Levi.

MARRIED.
